MATERIALS

Required: The main text will be Martha R. Mahoney, John O. Calmore, and Stephanie M. Wildman (MCW), "Cases and Materials on Social Justice: Professionals, Communities, and Law," Second Edition (2013). ISBN: 9780314926982. Available at the Law School bookstore.

Supplementary articles and cases are posted on TWEN as noted on the syllabus. TWEN readings are italicized in the syllabus.

COURSE PURPOSE AND LEARNING OUTCOMES

This course explores how those in the legal profession can work to advance social justice. First, the course will examine the meaning of social justice and the variety of structural factors that contribute to legal inequality. Then it will explore ways in which legal assistance is funded and delivered to low-income and underrepresented individuals; different substantive legal arenas in which social justice is pursued; and the diverse ways in which individuals can work for social justice, both in and out of the courtroom.

The course is designed to be introspective, interactive, and applied. There is an applied project in addition to a final exam. The purpose of the project is to encourage students to become engaged in broader social justice communities and become proactive in pursuing paid or pro bono work that focuses on social justice after graduation.

By the end of this course, students will have:

- Discussed the historical origins and various theories of lawyering for social justice in the United States;
- Compared skills and methods used by public interest and social justice lawyers with those used by traditional lawyers;
- Evaluated landmark case law in substantive areas of social justice such as antidiscrimination, education, voting rights, reproductive rights, and immigration;

- Developed and performed individual and group strategies for addressing specific social justice issues under the supervision of a licensed attorney.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS AND POLICIES

Attendance and Participation:

Requirements for class attendance and make-up exams, assignments, and other work in this course are consistent with university policies that can be found at: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx>. After Week 1, attendance will be self-reported on a class roster distributed at the beginning of each class. Tardiness and absences can affect grades.

As with all law school courses, it is essential that students are prepared and ready to participate in class. Being prepared means having read the materials carefully enough to understand, summarize, discuss, and form an opinion about them. If cases are included in the readings, being prepared means being able to brief the cases. It is anticipated that you will spend an average 2 hours out of class reading and/or preparing for every 1 hour in class. After the first week, an on-call system will be established.

Class requirements:

There will be an applied service learning group project and a final exam.

Service Learning Project: This applied project includes an experiential learning process, written products, and a final presentation. More detailed instructions for this assignment will be discussed in class and can be found on the TWEN site. In general:

1. Students will sign up for one of the projects posted on TWEN. All projects require students to work in teams of no more than four-five.
2. Students will work for a legal organization or a community group to complete the projects under the supervision of a lawyer and consistent with the rules of professional responsibility.
3. The projects have been developed so that students can increase their awareness of broader social justice issues and sense of community connectedness while they acquire social justice lawyering skills. Additionally, students will have the opportunity to make a meaningful contribution to the selected causes.
4. Students are required to develop a plan outlining the exact scope and timeframe of work for successful completion of project. Template and instructions are available on TWEN.
5. Each project requires a final work product.
6. Individuals working in teams will also submit a synopsis of their individual effort and the project process.
7. Final work products and individual synopses are due the last week of class. Students will make brief presentations about their project at the end of the semester.
8. All written assignments must be submitted on TWEN. Assignments completed by the group can be submitted under one group member's name.

Final exam: There will be a short answer final exam based on material covered during the semester. An exam review will be held on the last days of class, after class presentations are completed.

Grading Policies:

Grading for Social Justice Lawyering is calculated as follows:

- Attendance and participation – 10%
- Service Learning Project – 45%
- Final exam - 45%

The Levin College of Law’s mean and mandatory distributions are posted on the College’s website and this class adheres to that posted grading policy. The following chart describes the specific letter grade/grade point equivalent in place:

Letter Grade	Point Equivalent
A (Excellent)	4.0
A-	3.67
B+	3.33
B	3.0
B-	2.67
C+	2.33
C (Satisfactory)	2.0
C-	1.67
D+	1.33
D (Poor)	1.0
D-	0.67
E (Failure)	0.0

Classroom Electronics Use:

Please silence and store your cell phones during class time. If you have an emergency where you must have access to your phone, you must inform the instructor before class.

Impermissible use of a laptop during class WILL affect your grade. Please note the following excerpt from the College of Law’s Computer Policy: “Students may use laptops in the classroom for notetaking and for class purposes as directed by the professor. Other uses are not permitted, including, but not limited to, email, chat rooms, instant messaging, ecommerce, game playing, etc.” The instructor reserves the right to ban the use of ALL laptops during class time, if any student’s laptop use becomes disruptive to the class.

UF POLICIES

Accommodating Students with Disabilities: Students requesting accommodation for disabilities must first register with the Dean of Students Office (<http://www.dso.ufl.edu/drc/>). The Dean of Students Office will provide documentation to the student who must then provide this documentation to the College of Law Dean of Student Affairs, Rachel Inman, when requesting accommodation. You must submit this documentation prior to submitting assignments or taking the quizzes or exams. Accommodations are not retroactive, therefore, students should contact the office as soon as possible in the term for which they are seeking accommodations.

Academic Misconduct: Academic honesty and integrity are fundamental values of the University community. Students should be sure that they understand the UF Student Honor Code at <http://www.dso.ufl.edu/students.php>.

Online course evaluation: Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing online evaluations at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu>. Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results/>.
