To become a top 10 public law school, we must recruit extraordinary students with excellent credentials, diverse backgrounds, and varied life experiences. By providing the scholarships vital to recruiting these students from across the country, you will help us shape the future of UF Law.

— LAURA A. ROSENBURGY
Dean and Levin, Mabie & Levin Professor of Law
Three Pillars of Success

1. DIVERSE AND HIGHLY-CREDENTIALED STUDENTS
   - "I received a generous scholarship from UF Law. That financial stability, coupled with the campus, being a part of the Gator culture and the Gator history, just made sense. I got accepted into a few other schools, some in the northeast, some on the West Coast, but I just knew that UF Law was where I wanted to be."
   — DANIEL-JOHN SEWELL (JD 19)

2. SUPERIOR JOB PLACEMENT
   - "My professors provided support throughout every step of the job search process. Additionally, the alumni in New York read my résumé, prepared me for interviews, and made time to meet with me whenever I came to the city. Members of the UF Law community not only supported my pursuit of a dream job; they were invested in it."
   — JENNIFER DWECK (JD 17)
   Associate, Skadden, Arps, Slate Meagher & Flom LLP and Affiliates

3. CUTTING-EDGE FACULTY AND PROGRAMS
   - "The clinics are where practice meets education. In them, students apply the theory and skills that they are taught in the classroom to live clients. Clinic students have a head start when they go into practice. By funding these critical needs, we can provide even more opportunities for our students to be practice-ready lawyers upon graduation."
   — SILVIA MENENDEZ
   Associate Dean for Experiential Learning

Increased median LSAT 6 points in 36 months
Recruited and enrolled 22% out of state
Raised racial and ethnic diversity to nearly 32%

Public interest stipends
Fellowships
Professional development opportunities

Endowed chairs and professors
Lecture series and symposia
Clinics

Invest now in UF Law’s future. Learn more and give at www.law.ufl.edu/give