

GATOR SCHOLARS OPTION | FLORIDA LAW ADMISSIONS

We invite University of Florida undergraduate students seeking to enroll at UF Law in the fall of 2024 to consider applying through the Gator Scholars option. We encourage this option if UF Law is your first choice of law school, you have not yet taken the LSAT or GRE, and you have an LSAC-calculated undergraduate GPA of 3.9 or above.

Option Description:

Students enrolled as undergraduates at the University of Florida may be eligible for admission to the Levin College of Law through the alternative admission program authorized by Standard 503 of the American Bar Association (which accredits law schools). This standard permits admission of certain applicants who do not have a reportable graduate admissions test score (LSAT/GRE) under the conditions described below. Applicants admitted under the Gator Scholars option will be awarded a Gator Scholars scholarship in the amount of $5,500 (Florida residents) or $9,500 (non-Florida residents) per year. Please note that the ABA limits the number of students that a law school may enroll under this option to 10% of the previous year's entering class.

Requirements for Eligibility:

- You must be an undergraduate at the University of Florida who will receive an undergraduate UF degree between September 2023 and May 2024.
- You must not have received a score on the LSAT and must not assign a GRE score to UF Law.
- Your ACT National composite score or SAT mathematics and critical reading total score must be at or above the 85th percentile for the administration of the exam that you took.
- To be most competitive, your current overall LSAC-calculated cumulative undergraduate grade point average (CGPA) should be at or above 3.9 when you apply to the College of Law. Students who may qualify for Gator Scholar by the time they graduate are encouraged to contact UF Law Admissions to discuss whether Gator Scholar is the right option for you.

Instructions:

- Register with LSAC and submit transcripts to LSAC for courses taken at any college or university. Your overall LSAC-calculated CGPA will include grades earned in all courses including transfer credit.
- Submit your complete application through LSAC (select the Gator Scholars option) by September 15, 2023, for first-round consideration. Complete applications will include all required parts, as set forth in the application instructions, and a copy of your official ACT or SAT results attached as an application addendum.
- Additional rounds of decisions, if any, will take place until the program reaches the 10% cap.

Obligations if Offered Admission:

- If you are offered admission through this option, you must accept or decline the offer by October 1, 2023 as determined by the Office of Admissions.
- If you accept the offer by submitting an enrollment form and seat deposit, you must withdraw from consideration at other law schools, and you may not apply to any additional law schools.
- You must graduate with an LSAC-calculated CGPA of 3.90 Enrollment is contingent upon a final overall LSAC-calculated CGPA at or above 3.9. If your final LSAC-calculated CGPA drops, your admission may be rescinded and you may not be allowed to enroll. Please carefully consider these factors before applying through this option.
- If you are admitted pursuant to this option and later take the LSAT, your admission will be rescinded, whether you receive a score or not, and your application will be reviewed in light of your LSAT score.
- If you are admitted pursuant to this option and later report your GRE score to UF Law, your admission will be rescinded, and your application will be reviewed in light of your GRE score.

We look forward to reviewing your application! We are happy to answer any questions as you consider your options. Please reach out to admissions@law.ufl.edu with any questions.
